- Anonymous survey by Software Guru shows outstanding opportunities for Nearsoft team members
- Nearsoft offers personal growth and leadership

Scottsdale, AZ – May 14, 2018 – Nearsoft, an Indecomm company, took the top spot on the Best Companies to Work for 2017 and Best Places to Code list from Software Guru, a leading media for software professionals in Latin America. Indecomm Global Services is a leading provider of digital engineering and engagement services, including digital learning and content services.

The Best Companies to Work for 2017 and Best Places to Code list was developed from anonymous responses to Software Guru's survey of Latin American software companies. The survey was conducted in November 2017 and evaluated criteria such as level of intellectual challenge, quality of colleagues, level of compensation, and encouragement of diversity.

"Seeing the dedication of our global teams at Indecomm is enormously satisfying," said Venu Raghavan, CEO, Indecomm Digital Services. "It's truly inspiring to see their passion and commitment in delivering superior software products for our clients. Our culture is very employee-centric. We actively reward brilliance and social commitment. This approach has generated a dynamic and growing customer base."

Indecomm's portfolio currently includes over 100+ leading technology companies and its teams have delivered more than 1,000+ software products for our clients. Its software professionals are developing leading edge innovative solutions in AI, IoT, Machine Learning, Cloud, and Dev Ops, to name a few. Indecomm's growth is non-linear and based on its unique platforms and products.

"There is a clear and present trend of companies proactively planning and executing for the digital future," said Roberto Martinez, CEO, Nearsoft, an Indecomm company. "Our clients rely on us to provide the technology driving their digital growth."

The Nearsoft team in Mexico shares the same commitment, responsibilities, and values as their partners around the globe. Its culture encourages Nearsoftians to be themselves and to actively innovate. Each individual is on a path toward personal growth and leadership.
